Web of Science: Persistently Licensed Information

Within 30 days after termination, if you have maintained a subscription to the licensed data for at least 5 consecutive years on a persistent basis, you may request post-termination access. We will provide post-termination persistent access via a platform we choose subject to the terms of the agreement and the scope of your license unless such license is revoked by us due to your breach or insolvency. Any platform we provide to you for the sole purpose of maintaining post-termination access may not be used for any other purpose unless expressly authorized by us in advance in writing and is provided with reduced functionality and no warranties, liability, representations or undertakings. For the avoidance of doubt, (i) persistent access replaces perpetual access to the licensed data and related package offerings, and (ii) if you have not maintained a subscription to the licensed data for the minimum consecutive 5-year period described above, we have no obligation to provide ongoing access post-termination.
